

Alexander Hamilton Schultz

Computer Science Student

323 E. Veterans Way Unit 1511 Tempe, AZ 85281 | 480 - 371 - 7204 |

alexhschultz@gmail.com

alexschultzAZ.github.io

Computer science student a heart for web development. Natural leader and determined bootstrapper who isn't afraid of having 30 or more Stack Overflow tabs open simultaneously.

- Completely fluent in OOP
- Node.js
- Ruby on Rails
- HTML/CSS and Javascript
- Agile/Scrum and Lean Startup methodology
- Proven presentation and pitching skills
- Defensive Coding
- Full stack development
- UI/UX development
- Can explain WiFi to an elderly person (usually)

Led Trip to Aid Syrian Refugees in Berlin - June 2016

- Led 15 other college trips on two week trip to serve Syrian Refugees in government housing.

Founder of ASU Startup Slam Organization - January 2015 to Current

- Held weekly ideation sessions to unify students across disciplines under entrepreneurship.
- Spoke with Phoenix Valley startup leaders and arranged guest speaking opportunities for students to get connected with the tech startup industry.

Co-Founder of Next Step - August 2015 to Current

- Finalist in FSE 301 - Entrepreneur & Value Creation pitch competition.
- Mentorship matching application that focuses on individuals one step ahead/behind each other in life.
- Currently building Ruby on Rails web app.

Startup Evangelist at ASU FSE Startup Center - November 2014 to May 2015

- Ambassador between students and Valley startup leaders.
- Helped secure funding for the creation of the Startup Center on Tempe campus of ASU.

Education

Bachelor of Science, Computer Science (Software Engineering)

Arizona State University - Ira A. Fulton School of Engineering

minor in Mathematics - School of Mathematical & Statistical Sciences

graduating in May 2017